

Twelve out of 12 advisory members who attended our CD Advisory meeting on May 3, 2019 voted yes to move forward with the application to the chancellor's Office for the CD Core and CD Core Plus certificates. The following is a compilation of written feedback provided by each of the participants:

- It will be very useful and will allow students to secure jobs easily. It will also provide students with an incentive to enroll in the ECE program and will increase enrollment and completion.
- If passes, this will help students stay committed in their education in child development.
- Core Plus certificate could potentially help the department to increase enrollment.
- Students will have an incentive to collect stackable certificates.
- The new certificates will demonstrate that students are eligible for the CD teacher assistance permit, which could result in great opportunities to get a job. In addition, more funding for the department.
- It will motivate students to continue their education. It is consistent with the levels of the Child Development Permit, which is required by state and federal programs.
- This will help align with the Child Development Permit Matrix
- Would encourage more students to enroll in CD classes
- Would also help them for a pathway to further their education.
- It is a streamline pathway to their career.
- An encouragement to move forward and continue learning from Core certificate, specialization certificate, and AA degree.
- Having this certificate will encourage students to take the required 12 units to meet CD Permit requirement as well as minimum requirements for Title 22. It gives them a plan to follow. Additionally, keeps students on track for moving up to the CD Permit, AA or AS-T graduation.
- I feel it would support students with their goal and reach milestones.
- These certificates will provide students with options to continue growing in their field. This is a way to maximize their options and opportunities.
- Provide students with as structure/pathway to follow.
- It is very clear about classes need to be taken.
- Students will be motivated to get certificates.
